- Possibility to make the coupon available for the email recipient only. To take the coupon usage over total control, make the promo code sent in the follow up email valid only for the email recipient.

Abandoned Cart Email 1.11.10

- Possibility to make the coupon available for the email recipient only. To take the coupon usage over total control make the promo code sent in the follow up email valid only for the email recipient.

GeoIP Redirect 1.0.7

- Redirect between websites or only within stores of the same website. This feature is extremely handy if, for example, you have several websites with really different selection of products. E.g. if you are selling building materials and clothing on two separate websites, you can disable redirection between them. Moreover, you can disable the module for a particular store view, so when a customer comes to this store, no further redirection rules will be applied.

Custom Stock Status 3.8.0

- Stock status text that was relevant at the moment of purchase now stays in the order, no matter which changes come with time. For example, if there were 10 items in stock at the moment of order placement, the status will stay at 10 in the order even when in fact there would be only 3 products left. Custom stock status text is now displayed within order information for each purchased item both in the backend and in the customer account.
