Hello to Amasty blog readers!

This year is reach on events. We're happy to inform you that our colleagues Alex Motorny, a Magento developer, and Valeriya Shautsova, Head of the QA department, will be speaking at Meet Magento Spain in Madrid on Nov, 7th.

They will both take the stage and present on the following topic: Magento Security from Developer's and Tester's points of view. It's the talk about the two sides of the same entity and how security of a Magento shop is properly provided and maintained on the development and testing levels.

Alex and Lera are excited to take the stage of Meet Magento, which is the fourth event in Spain and promises to collect over 450 merchants, developers and other members of Magento community. If you're planning to visit the conference, feel free to come up and say hello to the guys!

Among other matters, the organizers are offering free tickets to merchants and online shop owners! To apply for a free ticket, follow this link.

See you at Meet Magento Spain!
