The coupon is available only for particular customer - The extension can generate and add special coupons to abandoned cart emails automatically. Set this option to 'Yes' if you want to make the coupon available only to the email recipient. In other words, the coupon code can be used only if a customer gets to a store through the link in the email or if he/she is logged in as an email recipient.

Send emails only to registered customers - Set this option to 'Yes' if you want to send abandoned cart emails only to registered customers.

Disable guest email logging for EU customers (GDPR compliance requirement) - Set to Yes if you want EU customers' emails not to be saved in the system's base in order to prevent sending unsolicited emails.

Allow triggering more than one rule per Cart - Set to Yes if you want to apply more than one rule per Shopping Cart. This option will let you send not one but several types of messages according to the content of an abandoned cart. For example, you can trigger messages with a free delivery offer on orders over $100 — and simultaneously apply another rule to offer discounts for certain product type to motivate customers to spend more.

Email Templates

Sends copy of emails to - Specify the address to send the email copy

Main Template - choose an email template. To edit or create a template, please, go to System > Transactional Emails.

Debug

Enable Debug Mode - In usual mode, abandoned cart emails are sent with a 10 minutes delay after the cart was abandoned. If you enable test/debug mode, the emails will be sent without any delay, but only to the specified email domains. For example, your team would like to test the sending of abandoned cart emails, so you set 'storename.com' in the Permitted Email Domains and after one of the team members, for example, john@storename.com, leaves the cart, he will receive the email right off the bat if everything works fine.

Log

Log Enable - when enabled, all your steps of rules creation and sending of emails will be recorded in the log. This will help to find mistakes if they are committed.

Log Storage Period - specify the time the log should be saved.

Create New Rule
